

TRANSIT ALLIANCE APPOINTS KATHLEEN OSHER AS ITS SECOND EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

DENVER, CO – Kathleen Osher, formerly transportation manager of the Southeast Business Partnership, has been appointed executive director of the Transit Alliance.

Osher, the group's second executive director, will assist the organization in diversifying its leadership and membership.

“Transit Alliance knows that a balanced multi-modal transportation system will include bus rapid transit, light rail, suburb-to-suburb interconnects and people-friendly bike paths and walkways,” says Osher. “The advent of FasTracks is a giant step forward.”

The key to success, says Osher is putting heart and soul into our transportation choices. “We need to put the needs of people first,” she said. “That’s where we step in.”

Transit Alliance will share its vision for regional transportation at its Thur., Apr. 6, 2006, workshop at the Colorado Convention Center, 14th and California Streets, Denver, CO, from 8-10 a.m. (registration starts at 7:30 a.m.). The workshop is entitled, Metro Denver’s New P.O.P. Culture, Making Our New Spaces “People-Oriented Places.” Sponsors include RTD, Denver Regional Council of Governments, Metro Denver Economic Development Corporation and Homebuilders Association of Metro Denver.

“The Transit Alliance regional workshop is a forum to discuss taking Colorado to the next level in providing smart transportation choices to its people and visitors,” says Osher.
